Planetarium Show Lunch and Learn - Derek Demeter (Seminole State College)

Options for Breakout Session 1:

Ethical Advising - Igor Tavuzhnyanskiy (Florida State College at Jacksonville)

What are ethics? Just knowing the difference between what is right and wrong? Sounds simple and straight-forward... But it may not always be clear what is ethical behavior and what might be unethical because "right" and "wrong" are subjective. We will talk about ethics and how it applies to academic advising, as well as discuss a few scenarios.

Talk to Nerdy to Me: The Language of eSports - Geoffrey Howard Nelson (Seminole State College)

Competitive gaming or eSports is a phenomenon that has become a fundamental element in today's digital youth culture. This presentation will lay down a foundation of eSports knowledge to help attendees communicate effectively with students on their campuses. Furthermore, it would give a basic understanding of what goes into starting a recreational or competitive eSports program on college campuses. The presentation will offer a look at the basics of eSports, the common vernacular used by students in regards to gaming, and finally a description of the most commonly played types of games.

Options for Breakout Session 2:

Dare to Finish at EFSC - Tracy Glidden (Eastern Florida State College)

Dare to Finish is a recruiting initiative to identify, contact and challenge former students to return and finish their degree. The cohort contains inactive students within 18 credit hours of completion, no degree on file, GPA of 2.0 or higher, and no more than three course withdrawals.

LinkedIn @ the NEXT Level - Lisette Guillen-Dolby (Seminole State College)

So you have this LinkedIn account, but the problem is you rarely use it or just not sure how to take it to the next level... During COVID-19, the emphasis has been placed on communication and connection to an online community. In this LinkedIn presentation, you will learn current tips on how to enhance your online profile, learn more about mobile application options, how to use the online portfolio and navigate university pages for career development, in addition to expanding your professional online network.
